The Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport

Our brand is important. It's how we communicate our achievements and ambitions, and how we cultivate enthusiasm for the work that we do. It's what people recognise and remember, and it shapes how people think and feel about us.

To ensure that we maintain the integrity of our brand, we must use it consistently and with purpose. Our brand should be utilised carefully by all, internally and externally, to ensure an accurate and consistent representation of who we are and what we do.

These guidelines form a key reference tool to maintain that consistency and brand integrity. As with all guidelines, please use them with care. They are here for your guidance and should be adhered to whenever possible.

A human approach

As our brand develops it is becoming increasingly people focused. We are a membership organisation and exist for the benefit of our members.

We should have a human approach to all our communications, both in terms of the imagery we use and our language and tone of voice.

People are at the heart of what we do, and should be at the heart of our brand and messaging.

Tone of voice

Hello

Ciao

Why words matter

We communicate who we are and what we do in three ways; how we behave, how we look and how we sound. If we want more people to engage with CILT, we have to position ourselves in their minds as an organisation that is relevant to them. How we talk about ourselves - our tone of voice - is an effective way of doing this.

Our visual identity – logo, colours and imagery – is not the whole picture. The words we use and the stories we tell about ourselves are crucial to connecting successfully with people: our colleagues, our members, our business partners, our family, potential employees, local community groups, everybody.

Consistency is all

Every time someone comes into contact with us we need to make sure that what we say, and the way we say it, helps people understand what makes us unique. The way we express ourselves has to be consistent for people to trust us. For example, it's no good saying we are supportive if the language we use is cold and remote. If our website is approachable, human and welcoming, but our letters are brisk and full of jargon, we will appear disjointed and people will not respect us. All of our communications must share the same tone of voice.

So what is tone of voice?

Our tone of voice is what we say and how we say it. It's the way we write, how we speak and the words and phrases we choose to use.

What we say is influenced by our principles and aspirations – the messages and ideas we convey.

They should come through in our language and the messages we communicate.

- › Global and supportive.
- › Expert and accessible.
- › Professional and diverse.
- › Inclusive and human.
- › Dynamic and progressive.

Putting it into words

Here are some examples of how these qualities can be distilled into meaningful writing that captures who we are as an organisation.

GLOBAL AND SUPPORTIVE

We are the Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport. We have a global family of over 35,000 members in over 50 countries that we help support throughout their careers.

Here are some examples of the type of words we can use to convey this in our copy:

family; helpful; team; understanding; encouraging; international; comprehensive; total; inclusive; large-scale; growing; strength; unity.

EXPERT AND ACCESSIBLE

Transport and logistics help the global economy go around. Through our membership and research we provide the leading international voice for logistics, supply chain and transport policy and issues.

Here are some examples of the type of words we can use to convey this in our copy:

professional; knowledgeable; adept; proficient; practised; open; available; friendly; clear; responsive; leading; experienced; we believe...; in our experience...

PROFESSIONAL AND ROBUST

With over 100 years of experience within our field, we provide exceptional training and support to our membership and our sector. Our progressive stance on education has enabled us to become one of the leading learning establishments in our field.

Here are some examples of the type of words we can use to convey this in our copy:

specialised; qualified; certified; skilled; experienced; trained; heritage; rigorous; strong; proven track record; respected; forward-looking; reliable; dynamic; visionary.

INCLUSIVE AND HUMAN

When we work together we are stronger. We don't discriminate on any level and encourage open and transparent conversations throughout our industry. We believe we should treat each other and our planet with the respect they deserve. Our human approach ensures we truly are a global family, and our energy and drive make that family a real success.

Here are some examples of the type of words we can use to convey this in our copy:

passionate; trusted; team; open-minded; realistic; honest; empathic; communicative; encouraging; personable; listening; welcoming; partnerships; family.

Our boilerplates

Our boilerplate text is a piece of pre-written copy about CILT that can be used across all of your marketing communications. It can be used when talking about The Institute or as a sign-off.

The Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport is the leading professional body for everyone who works in supply chain, logistics and transport. We are a global family, representing professionals at all levels across all sectors, dedicated to giving individuals and organisations access to the tools, the knowledge and the connections vital to success in the logistics and transport industry.

Founded in 1919 with a mission to improve industry practices and nurture talent, our Institute supports over 35,000 members in more than 50 countries. Through our educational suite, our strong community and our commitment to high standards, we help professionals at all levels to develop their careers and access better jobs.

Hints and tips

It's important to write clearly and simply. This doesn't mean 'dumbing down'. It does mean avoiding overly long or formal words and complicated sentences.

TRY TO:

- › Ensure our copy is understood by everyone. As a global organisation some people reading our communications may not have English as a first language. If it helps, imagine that you are reading your text out loud to a whole family – mum, dad, their eight-year-old daughter, ten-year-old son and the grandparents. Wherever possible, everyone needs to understand what we're saying.
- › Write our name in full in the first instance, this is The Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport (CILT). From the second mention onwards, this can be abbreviated to CILT.
- › Be clear and confident and direct about what you are saying. We are leading the world in transport and logistics. Use terms like 'we will' and 'we can'. These are more reassuring than 'we strive to' or 'we may'.
- › Keep the tone warm, accessible and inclusive – use collective terms like 'us', 'we', 'our'. Imagine you are having a conversation with someone you like and respect rather than writing an essay, report or formal letter.
- › Use plain, clear English. For example, 'help' instead of 'assist' or 'enable'.
- › Use familiar language like family, members, friends, and colleagues.
- › Use contractions such as 'we're' that are better suited to a more supportive, accessible tone of voice. But when making an impactful statement use the expanded form, for example: 'we are'.
- › Use British English spelling and grammar unless your region has a specific requirement.
- › Keep sentence structures simple. In other words, aim to make one clear point in each sentence rather than linking multiple thoughts together.
- › Keep your paragraphs short too so that the text doesn't look overwhelming on the page.

- › Use subheadings where you can to help guide the reader through your copy and help to clarify the key points you are making.

TRY NOT TO:

- › Use acronyms, abbreviations and technical language. As a simple guide, if you would need to explain it to someone who doesn't do your job, don't use it.
- › Talk down to people or use patronising language.
- › Use 'The Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport' repeatedly - instead use 'we' or 'our'.
- › When speaking about our organisation, as an abbreviation, please use CILT, (phonetically: see; eye; el; tea). Please ensure, we're not referred to as SILT (a soil or sediment) or KILT (a traditional Scottish garment).

Key messages

Key messages are statements we use with our brand for digital and printed applications. Here are some tips on how and when to use them.

“Stronger Together”

Our primary message and this can be used in all applications but must never replace the logo.

“Career partner for life”

When you’re creating educational marketing pieces, you can use the key message “Career partner for life”.

“Over 100 years devoted to excellence in transport and logistics”

When you’re creating membership recruitment or retention communications you can use this key message.

“Established to promote the art and science of logistics and transport”

This was created by the Royal Charter and is only ever used on certificates or awards.

WHEN TO USE THEM

Our key messages should be used in conjunction with either the wording “The Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport” or the CILT logo, but should be secondary to that wording / logo.

If you are creating a membership recruitment and retention piece – please refer to the membership guidelines for specific use cases.

We would only recommend using these for items like charts, diagrams and information graphics. Our preference is to always use the colours at 100%.

Please do not use the secondary colours in headings or within body copy, and never use them to re-colour the logo or graphic devices.

Vertical / stacked logos

For use when printing in a defined portrait area.

In order to protect the CILT logo and make sure it is always legible and clear on all our material, we have developed a stacked version to ensure maximum visibility.

This means that if you have a defined portrait area i.e. a very long, thin item, that you need to apply the logo to you may use this option.

Please note, this is a secondary logo and should only be used in instances where the primary logo is unsuitable.

Correct logo and orientation

Incorrect logo and orientation

Exclusion zone

In order to protect the logo and make sure it is always legible and clear on all our material, we have developed an exclusion zone around it.

This means that whenever we apply the logo to anything, it should have clear space surrounding it as shown left.

It is calculated by using the height of one arrow from the logo.

This means it will proportionally have the same amount of space around it regardless of its size.

Position and size

Logo positioned in the top left corner

Logo positioned in the bottom left corner

Logo positioning

Due to the shape of our logo, it should always be aligned to either the top left or bottom left corner of any application (this excludes brand giveaways and digital use).

Minimum size

A minimum size of 40mm or 120px wide has been established for all printed material (this excludes brand giveaways and digital use).

40mm or 120px

Incorrect use

Incorrect typeface

It is important that our logo is correctly and consistently reproduced.

The logo should not be altered in any way. It must NEVER be re-typed in another typeface, have the relationship between the elements changed, be distorted or appear in any colour other than those specified.

Primary typeface

Our primary typeface, which is to be used on all of our professionally printed communications is 'Imago'. Please do not use any other typeface in conjunction with our brand.

Imago is a modern, very legible and professional font that is completely at ease on all our literature and applications.

A range of different weights are available for you to use to ensure a versatile and effective typographic style for our visual identity. These should be used sparingly to ensure that they highlight rather than dominate.

Always ensure that typography is laid out simply and clearly.

All body copy should be set ranged left and never justified.

Important note: Please do not use Imago for screen or digital-based applications such as email signatures, PowerPoint or Word - see note in next column for secondary typeface.

Purchasing Imago

There are many different versions of Imago to cover different language requirements such as Latin, Baltic, Cyrillic, Greek etc. Please select the most appropriate for your region from here: <http://www.bertholdtypes.com/font/imago/be/>

Our secondary typeface

For any digital or screen-based applications such as Word, PowerPoint and Excel, our default font is 'Arial', which is a common system font.

Accessibility

Our audience is diverse and wide spread, many will have English as a second language so it's important that our use of typography is clean, clear and easy to understand. We'd suggest using a minimum size of 10pt for main body copy with a 2pt leading (line spacing).

Photographic style

Our imagery

Photography is a powerful communication tool and should be used to engage our audience and tell a story about our work.

Our logo

When using our logo over an image, please ensure there is adequate clear space or refer to pages 18 and 22.

Our brand photography

Our photographic style is clean, clear and natural to reflect the real life scenarios our audience can relate to. Please do not use montage or clip-art style imagery.

Wherever possible our imagery should show the interaction of people. Every effort should be made to portray 'real' people in positive situations who could have benefited from the support that CILT provides. Overly posed, cheesy or obvious 'model' shots should be avoided where possible.

We have a library of images that we're developing on our Flickr channel: <https://www.flickr.com/photos/ciltinternational/albums>. You are welcome to use these in your own communications or to develop your own.

Photos should be used with great care and consideration. By selecting engaging images that have something to say, we can really connect with our audiences and bring our work to life.

Using the correct imagery

Our imagery should reflect the diverse nature of our work, our sectors and most importantly our audience. When designing work for a particular region try to convey a true sense of the place and the people you are talking to.

Image use

Where possible use photos at a large size and give them room to breathe. Feel free to use full page, bleed images or double spread imagery if space allows.

Legal

Please only ever use images that you're licenced to use from either our library, a photo stock library, your photographer or a referenced Creative Commons image, otherwise you risk copyright infringement.

Graphic style

Our graphic devices

Creative use of our graphic devices can add interest.

Our graphic icon

Our graphic arrow

Our WiLAT symbol

Graphic icon

Our graphic icon is an expression of our brand in its most condensed form. The round shape means global, whilst the arrows signify movement, direction and energy.

Set the devices free

Over the following pages we've shown examples of how the icon, arrow and WiLAT symbol can be used creatively to tell a story, highlight a fact or to help emphasise the importance of our work and explain it in a greater context.

Important note: Feel free to experiment with the use of these devices, but never change the basic colour, nature of the shape or its proportions.

All works must carry the logo in full and must be applied correctly. Icons should never replace our logo in any application.

Illustration

To help explain our work and enable our audience to understand and engage with it, we've developed a signature style for illustration that is simple, bold, and complements our logo.

The clear and distinctive style of these illustrations creates brand recognition, strengthening and uniting our visual communications. They can be used alongside photography or to help lift a page when photography is not appropriate, available or necessary.

Try combining different elements to create more powerful stories.

Infographics

Our graphic arrow can be combined with illustrations to create distinctive and recognisable information graphics or graphs and charts.

Information graphics should always be used in conjunction with text, captions or other supporting copy to give them context and relevance.

Maps

Our graphic style can be used to create simple, clear and visually striking maps.

Brand framework

It is important that we make it clear to our members where communications are coming from, and who has sent them.

Communication distinctions

Our members need to understand where communications are coming from and what action to take.

International

We make a distinction between the International operation of CILT and our branches so that our members are aware that there is a global family, with local branches they can contact.

Branches

We have branches in many countries around the world. Each branch provides a unique offering to their membership. At times we need to make the distinction of the precise location of the branches in order for members to know who they should get in touch with.

Special Interest Groups

Within our global brand, we have special interest groups including Women in Logistics and Transport (WiLAT), Next Generation and the International Business Forum. These groups provide focused, specialist support to our membership. From time to time we use different communication methods to illustrate these groups, but the lead communication should always come from our CILT global brand.

Our WiLAT Logo

To protect our brand integrity, no other special interest group logos should ever be placed alongside the CILT logo, and no other new logos or marks should be created or used with our brand.

The only logo that can be used in association with our brand, is for the Special Interest Group for Woman in Logistics and Transport (WiLAT).

The WiLAT logo should always be secondary to our CILT logo. Whilst the essence and integrity of the WiLAT logo is important to us, it must never override our brand.

On a single-sided communication, or for a WiLAT specific publication, the WiLAT logo should be placed at the base of a communication, away from our main brand. For a two or more page document, where our brand is the lead, the WiLAT logo should be placed on the inside of the communication.

Stationery

A business card or a letterhead can often be the first way someone may come into contact with our brand. It is important that no matter where in the world that happens, our membership understands who we are and who is communicating with them.

PowerPoint – opening and closing

Opening slide

Presentation title

Event strip includes: conference/event name /location; author; job title including international prefix or country office

Closing slide

Signature strip includes: author name; job title; any social media channels; contact details

Opening slide

This should include an engaging title for the presentation; the location or event title; the author's name and job title; country office or the international prefix, and any special interest group.

Closing slide

As with the opening slide, we make it clear who has given the presentation and their contact details for anyone who'd like to get in touch after the event. Here we include the author's name and job title; country office or the international prefix; any special interest group; any social media channels; local telephone number; email address.

Special Interest Groups

While the presentation should always lead with our CILT brand, you may wish to tailor your content to your specific audience. In instances like this, we'd suggest using a tone of voice, imagery and content that is appropriate to the audience. In the instance of WiLAT only, the logo may also be used.

Best practice

Remember the main focus of your presentation is you, not the content.

Keep your presentations clean and simple and avoid too much text. Slides with large amounts of text have less impact and could confuse your audience.

You can find lots of examples of our presentations on SlideShare <http://www.slideshare.net/ciltinternational/presentations>

Please do not...

Use clip-art or word-art as this does not reflect our brand values and does not feel professional. These images and effects are often used elsewhere and usually involve very bright colours which complicate the message.

Why not try using images from our image library on Flickr <https://www.flickr.com/photos/ciltinternational/albums>

User centred

When we created our website, we placed our end users or visitors to the website at the heart of the project. We identified our key audience and assessed what their needs and wants from the website were, and then created a structure, content and design to match these needs.

CMS – Content Management System

Our CMS has been created in WordPress, an open-source PHP-based system. If you'd like to reuse this system for your branch/country please speak to Ceri Williams: Ceri.Williams@ciltinternational.org

CSS – Cascading Style Sheets

The design or skin of our website can be reused in conjunction with your own CMS. You are free to reuse these style sheets on your own country websites if you wish.

Branch selector bar

Change navigation for branch selector bar

Branch selector bar

As part of our commitment to improving communications with our members we've developed a country selector bar. You can see the example in action on Australia's website at the top where it says: Australia (Change), next to the white arrow.

This has been designed to be non intrusive to your branch website design, while still being on-brand.

The branch selector bar should be carried on all of our branch websites to make clear to users which website they have landed on. Clicking the bar allows users to see our full family of branches, and enables easy navigation between countries and the international website.

The code for implementing the bar is free and can be supplied by Ceri Williams:
